

Rachael Beles Bio

Rachael Beles is a versatile musician, holding a Bachelor's Degree in Music Performance and Pedagogy from Wheaton College Conservatory of Music. Specializing in flute, Rachael combines technical excellence with an expressive, nuanced style, captivating audiences in a variety of settings. As an experienced accompanist, Rachael has collaborated with distinguished artists, including Mark Ridenour, Principal Trumpet of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and served as pianist for the Elmhurst Christian Reformed Church Choir. Her teaching experience spans teaching beginning private lessons to elementary grade students, coaching high school chamber ensembles, and leading Musikgarten Keyboard 1 classes for ages 5-10, fostering a love for music across all ages. In addition to her expertise in flute and piano, Rachael is a multi-instrumentalist with a growing repertoire that includes trombone, saxophone, banjo, and guitar. Her adventurous spirit carries beyond the music world, as she enjoys whittling, rock climbing, and spending tranquil days at her lakehouse in La Porte, Indiana.
